CHURCH MARKS ANNIVERSARY

300 Attend Services Celebrating 103rd Year of Kirkpatrick Group.

Special to The Star
KIRKPATRICK, O., Nov. 11.—Approximately 300 members and friends of the Kirkpatrick Church of Christ attended all-day services of the 103rd anniversary of the founding of the church was celebrated. Among the visitors were residents of Marion, Bucyrus, Galion, Pleasant Grove, and Caldonia.

Rev. Percy Krewson, pastor, read a history of the church before he preached the morning sermon. A basket dinner was served at the noon hour, and Rev. W. R. Pitts of Caldonia gave an address for the afternoon program.

In 1828 members of the Hill and Kerr families began meeting for worship. The first organization of a church was effected in 1832 and Rev. Harrison Jones was the first pastor. The history of the church records that the next business meeting of the small congregation was on Jan. 12, 1840, when Rev. Jackson Dowling was hired as the pastor and it was decided to erect a meeting place. In the spring of 1840 a building 22x24 feet, built of hewn logs with a clapboard roof at a cost of $100 was dedicated. The first church had been log benches without backs for seats.

The next building was erected in 1860 at a cost of $1,000 and served until a growing congregation made it necessary to build the present church in 1903. The present church edifice cost $3,500.

Among the present membership of approximately 150 are descendants of the Hill and Kerr families and other of the pioneer families that formed the early congregation.

On Sunday, Nov. 17, the church will be the scene of the annual week-end and Tully township interdenominational Sunday school convention which is expected to draw approximately 300 persons from the five churches in the two townships.

The convention will start at 2 p. m. with Attorney John H. Clark of Marion as the principal speaker. V. C. Liggins, president of the Sunday school association, will preside.

Disabled Veterans Given Attention by Red Cross

Editor's Note: The following is one of a series of articles on the services rendered by the Red Cross and county by the Marion County Chapter of Red Cross. The chapter's annual report will begin today.

"The sick and disabled veterans and their dependent families have always been the special responsibility of the Marion County Chapter," Miss Lillian Plack, executive secretary of the Marion County chapter of Red Cross said recently in discussing the chapter's work with veterans.

The extent of the aid given in the last 12 months is apparent in Miss Plack's report that 1500 Marion county ex-servicemen and their families were given assistance, either in putting through their claims, getting their veterans' insurance or in securing hospitalization in government hospitals.

Not only does the Red Cross veterans' service extend to include Civil War and Spanish American War veterans and men in the regular army service.

A majority of the 2500 office interviews in the 12-month period and of the 400 home visits, were with veterans, the chapter records show.

As executive secretary in charge of the veterans' service, Miss Plack has compiled social histories and guardian reports for the veterans' administration, and has assisted in securing temporary employment for them in CCC camps.

Last year 250,334 veterans and their families throughout the

MISS LILLIAN PLACK

United States received Red Cross veterans' aid, according to Miss Plack.

The national Red Cross has a staff of workers who are thoroughly familiar with the benefits veterans may be allowed because of injury incurred through military service. These workers understand the government procedure essential in securing and presenting evidence proving the disability to be services connected, and they have liaison contacts with officials in numerous governmental agencies to assist veterans, through the Marion chapter, in obtaining compensation for these conditions.

Your Health

BY DR. R. A. COPELAND

Diet.

For generations the health value of lime has been recognized. Lime was a remedy used extensively by the old-time physicians who prescribed it for various ailments. But the importance of certain foods because of their lime content was only discovered during the present generation.

This knowledge has been of great help in the prevention of certain constitutional disorders. It is well to remember, too, that lime is especially important in the diet of the expectant mother, the infant and growing child. It builds sturdy bones and furnishes material for the framework and structure of the body. It is essential to the proper functioning of the nerves and muscles.

Since lime is so necessary for health and welfare, our daily diet should include foods rich in this mineral. For the growing youngster, milk is the best source of supply. The child should drink at least one quart of milk each day to make certain of a sufficiency of lime. Further quantities are obtained from vegetables and fruits.

Unfortunately, however, even though there is in the diet what should be an adequate supply of this mineral, sometimes there is an inability on the part of the body to use the lime. When this happens it is usually because there is a disorder of the "parathyroid glands." The condition itself is called "tetany" by the doctor.

The parathyroids are small glandular structures in the neck, located alongside the thyroid gland. They manufacture a substance which regulates the absorption and use of lime by the body. Like every other part of the anatomy, they are subject to inflammation, disease and injury.

Tetany is a peculiar affliction, causing marked muscular tremblings and sometimes attacks of convulsions. As a rule the hands and feet are involved, but other parts of the body may be affected.

The slightest pressure or even light tapping of the skin over a nerve may lead to marked twitching. Upon this fact is founded a test to determine whether tetany is present.

The condition may be found in children who have rickets. In these particular cases the trouble can usually be attributed to a lack of sunshine and fresh air, as well as to nutritional and lime-carrying food. Almost always there is some disturbance in the secretion of the parathyroid glands.

Tetany is a serious disturbance, but it is recognized and treated early. It may be overcome. Sun baths, exposure to ultra-violet rays, and the taking of cod liver oil are beneficial. Favorable results have been reported from the injection of a substance obtained from the parathyroid glands of animals.

Since tetany and other ailments may be encouraged by its lack, in your choice of foods never omit those that are rich in lime. Other minerals are needed, of course, but it is about lime I am speaking today.

As a foundation for the proper menu, include in it a daily quart of milk and an abundance of fresh fruit and vegetables. During the winter months the infant and growing child should be given cod liver oil.

BISHOP ROGERS PREACHES HERE

Episcopal Church Dignitary Delivers Sermon Before St. Paul's Congregation.

The church as a universal brotherhood, with the peace and harmony within the brotherhood acting as a leaven to the whole body of society, was pictured by the Right Rev. Warren L. Rogers, D. D., bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Ohio, in his annual sermon yesterday morning at St. Paul's Episcopal church. The church was filled to hear the bishop.

Bishop Rogers' sermon, in which he mentioned the Italo-Ethiopian situation, led up to the thought that the eight candidates for confirmation were existing such a brotherhood, with a power to bring about peace, brotherhood and fellowship.

Waste likely probably is right in her claim of a need for territorial expansion, the way she is taking to gain the end is objectionable, Bishop Rogers said. But, he continued, the United States is not in a position to criticize because the same measures were taken in this country with the Indians. He pointed to the procedure of the Louisiana Purchase in 1803 as a much better method and as a method much cheaper in the end. The bishop mentioned that for the first time in the program 52 nations have sanctions against the belligerents of the annual meeting. Episcopal House of Bishops attended last week in Tex., pointing out that the 125 bishops present various views, tames a and differed strongly there was always a fee tence loyalty and b through the common b church.

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Junior Gets Bite but Is Told It Is Crawfish.
The bottom, so he can't walk. "They're tough, those babies, they're like lobsters, and a hook through the back of one doesn't seem to mean a thing in his young life. He just strolls around the bottom of the lake as if he were taking his girl through the park."

I suggested that he was trying—successfully—to take Junior's mind from his disappointment. But I saw that his eyes were watching the two poles in Roderick's hand, the boy's own with a crawfish attached to the hook, such as Junior had, and the one with which Mr. Gibbs had been fishing, from which depended the eerie, beetle-like hellgramite.

Suddenly he put his hand upon Roderick's pole, just as there came the whir-which tells of a reel running out. "I'll take care of this," he said. "Don't jerk that rod! Let him run! He'll go under the rocks, but he'll come out again."

He motioned to me, without taking his eyes from the fish, and carefully edged the rod Roderick originally had, toward me. "I have it," I said a second later, and kept the crawfish-baited hook in the water. But I think the grandiosity of all the boys in Little Squam could have swallowed the crawfish and jumped into the boat with it without my noticing, so absorbed was I in the struggle with Roderick was waging with what really appeared to be a "big one."

Varied Group of Menus Offered by Mrs. Thurn

Dear Friends in Marion:
I've never been able to sympathize entirely with the woman who complains that she "can't think of anything for dinner." She needn't think too much, if she learns to use the good ever-ready accessory of experienced housekeepers, I mean a cook book. And the cook book which is the favorite ought to be one of many such volumes in her kitchen shelf. For without these reference books no family is adequately fed, and fed with interest and variety. Cook books may be the free booklets put out by modern food manufacturers—the free recipe leaflets from the Department of Agriculture in Washington, your own scrap book of clipped recipes from newspaper and magazines—and of course at least one good, standard cook book.

Learn to use these sources for varying your menus. I'm giving you here three menus and the main dishes, which are easily prepared. Try them on the family, and then next week, work out three more, which are different—and which introduce dishes your family has not had in some time.

Mix all ingredients together and put into a greased mold. Cover and steam forty-five minutes. Unmold on a hot platter and serve with thick hot white sauce, blended with one half cup mayonnaise. Garnish with sliced pickles. Enough for six.

If you prefer a baked loaf, place in a greased baking pan or casserole, set the pan in water in the oven and bake until the loaf is delicately brown—about thirty minutes.

SOUPS SUGGESTED FOR FAMILY MEAL

Suitable With Other Foods or Main Dish; Valuable in Figuring Budget.

Such soups as these are designed to be the main dish of family meals. Serve with them two vegetables, bread and butter, a salad or dessert, or both if the budget permits. But the soups are so nourishing that the family will be adequately fed without serving a main dish at the same meal. Botted rice makes a good addition to the supper menu on which a meat soup is the main dish.

Hamburg Vegetable Soup
Three fourths to one pound hamburger; two cups each chopped tomato and potato; two medium carrots sliced or one cup leftover cooked carrot; one half cup diced celery; one medium sliced onion chopped; two teaspoons salt; one fourth cup rice or barley; one eighth teaspoon pepper; one and one half quarts water.
Put all ingredients in large kettle, add water and simmer slowly three fourths to one hour. Serve with loaf or crackers as the main dish for luncheon or supper. Serve four.

Soup Stock
Three pounds beef from shin; two quarts cold water; one and one half tablespoons salt; four to six peppercorns; two cloves; a few sprigs parsley; one cup canned tomatoes; one half cup each diced carrots, onion, turnip, potato and celery.
Have shin bones cracked in several places. Wipe with damp cloth. Place in large kettle, add the cold water and salt, simmer slowly for three hours, then add the remaining ingredients and simmer another hour. Add more salt if necessary. Serve hot, or chill, remove fat and use as base for creamed or other soups. The soup may be served with the hot soup, or used in a leftover dish.

Pepper Pot
Four slices bacon; one onion; one green pepper; two quarts soup stock; one pound honeycomb tripe; one teaspoon salt; one half teaspoon pepper; one cup diced potatoes; two tablespoons flour; two tablespoons butter.

Cut the bacon into small dice and fry until a golden brown. Add onion and green pepper, finely chopped and cook gently for five minutes. Add soup stock and tripe which has been washed and shredded. Season with salt and pepper and bring to boiling point. Thicken with flour and butter which have been creamed together. Just before serving add one half cup evaporated milk.

On Tail Soup
One ox tail, cut in small pieces; one half cup onion; one half cup diced carrot; one cup diced potatoes; one fourth cup barley; one tablespoon salt; one fourth teaspoon white pepper; one tablespoon parsley; little thyme or majoran; one tablespoon caramel. The ox tail should be chopped at each joint, making pieces from one to two inches long; wash well in two or three waters; put on to cook with two and one-half quarts water; add the barley and cook slowly for two hours; then add onion, carrot, salt and pepper; cook for thirty minutes. Add potatoes and cook twenty-five minutes. Add a little paprika, thyme, parsley, majoran and the caramel. Serve all with pieces of the tail. Serve five.

HIGH COURAGE

by Jeanne Bowman

Copyright, 1935, by Jeanne Bowman
SYNOPSIS: Anne Farnsworth, who now calls herself Nikki Nielson, is hurrying to keep the Union Town fishermen from damaging the Farnsworth cannery, and themselves into the bargain. Anne has been charged of her share in the cannery by Tom Farley and his gang, but she has been asked to help by John Neuman, and she loves John and will do whatever he says. The market boys are telling her how one of the fishermen caught Farley's gang bottling salmon, but could not persuade Lee Farnsworth of the fact.

CHAPTER 33

Shot in the Dark

"HE couldn't convince Farnsworth, however, and when Farnsworth returned and told the crew, they decided it was time to take action. They told some of the fellows who've been losing money all summer and decided to go into action. They went to the cannery first, to get Farley. They were going to force him to go to the traps with them. They missed him. "John came in about that time, but they were beyond stopping. He tried to reason with them. Seems he's trying to protect the cannery, for some reason. "Then he sent us after you, Nikki. He said that you owned the cannery." "That I do?" questioned Anne, bewildered. "Yes, that's exactly what he said, and he said to tell you that he was ready to prove it." Anne shook her head. "He's mistaken, but maybe I can pretend long enough and convincingly enough to check them before they get into trouble." "John said you must, that if they harm anyone they'll be the ones to suffer, not the guilty ones." The engine faltered, and Orvi went back to join George. Anne stepped outside into the wind. The rain had stopped but huge waves dashed over the bow and sent her hurrying back to the cabin. She thought of other storms, of the one the night of Lucinda's death. And then the waves grew less rough, the wind seemed to die away, they were coming into the cove. Anne stepped out again. She saw the flicker of many lights. They were in a mass of fishing boats, gillnetters, trawlers, and a cruiser was nosing the piling of an old wharf, the wharf that held the fish trap building. Anne looked at the cruiser and closed her eyes in quick pain. "Ahti! What was it doing there. "Get into this." Orvi threw a rubber coat about her. He went back to the pilot house, and they maneuvered their way through the boats to a spot near the "Ahti." A barge was nearby, its surface gleaming with its catch of fish. They'd grown bold, this night of storm, with every other boat off the water during the closed hours. A cruiser was near it, nondescript, but familiar, the one which had cut across the Berki net. And the mob spirit was there. Voices rising in anger, then sinking to a low murmur more ominous

THE STARS SAY--

For Tuesday, Nov. 13

A DOUBTFUL and perplexing day, with the mind gloomy, melancholy and the tongue caustic, in forenoon. There are surges of treacherous and fraudulent conditions, with also the probability of scandal or misrepresentation to provoke this mood of dejection. Be careful with writings and guard them against loss. Elders may befriend in difficulties. Those whose birthday it is may find themselves beset by circumstances or events, inspiring a mood of vindictiveness, gloom and mental anxiety. The loss of papers, the distortion of writings or a scandal may bring the mood. But it would be well to refrain from action or to make enmity, which might forestall the kindness of an older friend. A child born on this day, though somewhat frail, may have some special qualities. A child born on this day, though somewhat frail, may have some special qualities.

The Marry-Go-Round

FROZEN HUSBANDS

What has become of that California scientist who claims that an animal or even a human being can be frozen stiff or days or weeks at a time, and then resuscitated, just like a cold-storage egg? Hasn't he demonstrated his theory on any Hollywood beauty? Or are they all Mrs. Wels? And doesn't he know what a boon it would be to the human race, and especially to wives, if it could be worked? For instance, if a husband with the perpetual grouchy could be frozen, just by a glance across the dinner-table, before he got to chubby with the blonde vampire in red— Or if the married "good-fellow" could be popped into an ice-pack just as he was about to treat "the whole crowd" on the mortgage money, or to put his week's salary on the wrong horse— Or if the man with a venky-complex could be frozen to the spot, while he was snoring at himself in the slot-machine parlor— Or if the critic-on-the-beat could be congealed long enough at the exact moment when he was about to spill acid on his neighbor's trousers— Or if the man who was about to be frozen to the spot, while he was snoring at himself in the slot-machine parlor— Or if the man who was about to be frozen to the spot, while he was snoring at himself in the slot-machine parlor—
